

Five Points landmark moves to Northeast Columbia

An historic local business which was a landmark in Columbia's Five Points for decades has found a new home on the Northeast side of Columbia.

Established in 1923, Bob Andrews Motors is one of the state's oldest continuous automotive service companies, now operated by the third generation of the Andrews family. This month, the company unveiled their new location: a carefully-designed replica of the Five Points location which had served as their home since the 1940's.

Because of its former location at one of the state's best known intersections — on Harden Street adjacent to Gervais Street — Bob Andrews Motors became an auto repair headquarters for hundreds of Downtown Columbia businesses and thousand local residents, especially from the Shandon and Forest Acres areas. But the business recently decided to sell that much sought after real estate to developers who plan to build University-related project at the site, and build a larger, ultra-modern facility on Two Notch Road.

Owner Mike Andrews said he's excited about the new location, but sad to be leaving the location he's know his entire life.

"There's a lot of history in that location," Andrews said. "We fixed lots of cars for lots of people I've come to consider family."

That's why Andrews decided to design his new location using the same design as the old building when it was first constructed. Using photos of the building which were published in local newspaper when it opened in the 1940's, architects designed the new location as a replica.

"Eighty-five years is a lot of tradition," Andrews said. "It was time to move, but I wanted to hang on to as much of it as I could."

In addition to it's new Two Notch Road location (5601 Two Notch, right beside Richland County Sheriff's Department), Bob Andrews Motors in 2003 opened its second location, in Irmo at 6167 St. Andrews Road near the intersection of Bush River Road. Between the two locations, the company has nine Certified Automotive Technicians, capable of handling all automotive repair and maintenance. (On the web, check out: bobandrewsmotors.com.)
